HONGKONG, NOVEMBER 28th, 1876.

Accomping to latest accounts received from the North of China, great suffering is already being experienced there through the famine The Sochow correspondent of the Courier re ports thearrivalof several hundreds of famishing people from the north of the Yangtsze river. Their object was, of course, in every case, to obtain food. No doubt they will be followed by many more, and the country to the south will thus have to bear a portion of the burden entailed by the fullure of the crops in Shantung and Chihli. The refugees already arrived in Soochow do not seem to have waited until reduced to extremity ore they migrated, for they are said to be decently clothed and not to appear pinched with hunger. But they are destitute of resources, and must, therefore, rely upon the charity of the people or authorities of Soochow for their daily ment. |-will perform the following programme this It is to be feared that the winter will wit ness great and widespread distress in North China. The Viceroy of Chihli is, it is stated, sending rice and money to some out-of-theway districts off the main roads, and this is certainly a wise and benevolent measure, if only it is properly carried out for it is i the remote districts that the keenest suffering will be felt and the greatest mortality experienced, unless measures are taken in good misery felt, and the wretched people have disposed of all-their farm stock, but sales of be made public. women girls, and children are reported to be frequent. The other day, says a northern contemporary, a man sold his wife and two young girls for nine thousand tash; and such incidents, it is added, are of daily occurrence. What will result when the winter in all its severity has set in, it is not pleasant to anticipate. The Chinese are seldem too warmly clad, and with insufficient nourishthat they will die off by the thousand. The Soochow correspondent above alluded to mentions the fact that in January, 1874, forty beggars died in that city in one night on account of the unusually cold weather and want of land and clothing. - This terrible experience is likely to be repeated on a much larger scale unless vigorous and timely refforts be made by the authorities to avert such a disaster. THE recent massacre of Imperialist troops in Formose by the aborigines, together with numerous other affairs of a similar character in which the Chinese have come off second best, soems to kayo created a prejudice in the minds of these gallant braves against the island as a place of residence. Thereare some spots which are more subject malaria, no doubt, but as a whole the island possesses a similar climate to the province of Folkion. The real fact is that these valiant mon-at-arms were afraid of sharing the fate of their predecessors, and thought a whole skin preferable to the chance of being picked off by an aboriginal bullet. The honour of dying in the service of their country presented no great charm to them. Nor is this much to be wondered at. The poor wrotches are badly paid and often insufficiently rationed. COUKTOWN.

Up to yesterday afternoon (Nov.-11) the Customs receipts from the first of the month amounted to over £4.021-in amount unprededented in collection. This spraks for itself the importance of Cooktown, and were we only to get a mere medicum in the way of local expenditure to our contributions to the general revenue, we should be far better off than at present. We hope our member will see to this By the Mecca and Normandy steamers which leave to-day (boy, 11), for Hongkong, the Chinose passengers will take a very large quantity ef gold, and judging by the quantities passed up to yesterday afternoon we should not be surprised were we able to record that at lea 9 000 oza were conveyed away by both etenmora It is really astonishing to see the large amount of gold which is being experted from Cooktown despite the cries of bard times, and it is with much pleasure that we revert to the fact that no less than 30,000 oza kave passed the Customs during the past three months. This in the face of nothing but reefing, so report says, being caused through the dry senson, and yet the major portion of the gold passed for is

LIGNOSE, A NEW EXPLOSIVE. According to the Industrie Zeitung, the ner explusive, lignose, apparently woody fibre repared with pitro-ulyoerine, invented by Prützschler-Falhonstein, is a very light powder, which in a loose condition burns very slowly. Great safety is stated as one of the a lyuntages of its use, and it is said not to be exploded by contact with naked fire, and with difficulty by friction or percuseion, while it can be used with a fuse in blasting. It is also said that but little, and that harmless, gas is left after explosion. In the Potytechnisches Centralblatt, an account, however, is given of the explusion and destruction of the building in which cartridges of it were prepared by women, by stamping it into cases; although according to tests made under Governmental supervision the occupation and been pronounced perfectly safe. The combustion of the cartridges, when first noticed, was so slow. that twenty-two out of twenty-three persons employed escaped unburt before the explosion

GENERAL BRAGG The Daily News says :- "General Braxton. Brugg, whose do to has recently been announced by the telegram from New York, was a famous man in his day. REFORMS IN TURKEY Mr. W. E. Forster has received from a correspondent in Constantinople, than whom he says here is no one whose opinion would be more generally admitted, if he were allowed to publish the writer's name, to deserve consideration, on account of his knowledge, judgment, and disinterestedness, a letter on reforms in Turkey. In the opinion of this contleman, if Europe is to do anything for Turkey it must commence with the very thing which the Turks object to most -the absolute equality of all the rices in the Empire. So long as this is not secured, nothing has been gained, and the Turkish Government will never put in force any reforms, tending to give real equality to the Obvictions except as it is compelled to do so by Europe. The army and police force must be made national and not Moslem, all affairs of the Empire must be open to all race and religions, the Sherbot must be abolished as the law of the Empire, and a civil code substituted. Financial and administrative reform is needed by Turks as well as Ohristians. Al classes in Asia as well as Encope ere suffering alike from a destructive, dishonest taxation and maladministration in all departments. Al though something must be done for the Christian provinces, and perhaps also for Thessaly and Epirus, the writer is not prepared to say that Europe should compel Turkey to give up absolutely the greater part of her European dominions. He believes that the Turks would resist it. even against all Europe, to the last drop of their blood. He dodbtg, too, whather the people themselves are sufficiently advanced for such a change, and thinks that all the real advantages to be gained for them might be secured in a better way. European Turkey is divided into vilayets, or provinces. This was a scheme of Anii and Frad Pashas for desentralisation. It has proved a miserable failure, like every other reform at tempted, for lack of honest men to carry it ont; but under European guidance it might be developed and organised; so us to make each of these vilayets essentially self-governing, giving he Obrietian element the control where it is in the majority. If applied to all European Turkey, this would satisfy the Greeks as well as the Bulgarians; and if to Asiato Turkey, it

By way of illustration it is angrested that if the governor be a Obristian, the vice-governor should be a Turk, and vice versa. Each recognised religious community should have reprementation in the principal councils of the province Full religious liberty should be secured to all in regard to worship, education, &c. The officers should be appointed for a specific time, &c. Such an arrangement presented, not as a dismemberment of the Empire, but as a development of the plan of Asi and Foad Pashas for decentralisation, would cause less ill-feeling among the Turks than any other, would secure the rights and entirty the wants of the Turke and the Christians alike. Nothing of any kind our be practically attained without the presence of a European commission in Constantinople to compel the Turks to carry out what they promise. In the writer's opinion. there is no other pointion of the Eistern Question except in a bloody war.

PLAYING AT OHESS. The Adelaide Observer directs attention to the following exquisito little poelical fragment which was composed some years ago by the new Vicerov of India, Lord Lytton, who, during his titled nonage, well maintained the literary prestige of his family under the usenmed name of "Owen Meredith: "--

My little love, do you remember Ere we were grown so sadly wise. Those evenings in the bleak December. Curtain a warm from the snowy weather, When you and I played chose together, Checkmated by each other's eyes? Ah, still I sen your nost white hand Hovering warm o'er Queen and Knight. Brave Pawes in valiant battle stand. The double Castles guard the wings: The Bishop, bent on distant things, Moves, sliding through the fight. Our fingers touch; our glances mest And fulter ; falls your golden hair : Against my cheek ; your bosom sweet s heaving. Down the field your Queen Rides slow her soldiery between, And checke me unaware. Ah, me, the little battle's done. Dieperat is all its chivalry; Full many a move, since then, have we Mid life's perplexing checkers made, And many a game with Fortune played-What is it we have won? This, this at least-if this along ! That never, never, never mord, As in those old still hights of yore (Ere we were grown so sadly wise).
